

Beaumont Costales, LLC

Beaumont Costales is a law firm whose primary practice is plaintiff's class action litigation with a special emphasis on workers' rights and consumer rights. Beaumont Costales has offices in Chicago and New Orleans.

In addition to being experienced class action litigators, our attorneys have diverse legal backgrounds with expertise in consumer law, privacy law, personal injury law, and immigrants' rights law, making them an excellent source of information for journalists.

The founding partners of Beaumont Costales are media trained and very comfortable giving broadcast interviews, be they live or taped. They are able to communicate complex legal issues in a way that a layperson may easily understand.

Journalists who work with Beaumont Costales can expect cooperation, responsiveness and articulate legal insight. Interviews can be conducted in English or Spanish.

About Beaumont Costales

Beaumont Costales was founded in 2012 by William H. Beaumont and Roberto Luis Costales in New Orleans. In 2016, the firm opened an additional office in Chicago, Illinois to better serve clients.

With years of experience and diverse legal backgrounds, Beaumont Costales attorneys can discuss a variety of law topics, including:

- Class Action Law
- Workers' Rights
- Consumer Rights
- Wage and Hour Law
- Undocumented Workers' Rights
- Tort Reform
- Workers' Compensation
- Personal Injury
- Fair Labor Standards Act
- Telephone Consumer Protection Act
- Randolph-Sheppard Act
- Americans with Disabilities Act
- Technology Laws, including Internet and Gaming

A Millennial Law Firm

Beaumont Costales is unique among class action litigators in that the founding partners and the entire staff are millennials, in contrast to the 60-70% of practicing attorneys today who are Baby Boomers. The firm's modus operandi reflects that generational shift. For example, Beaumont Costales attorneys frequently communicate with their clients via text message, utilize emoji and internet "memes" in their emails, and forgo printed legal texts in favor of a digital legal library via Google Scholar. Beaumont Costales tries to focus on bringing fresh young insights to established (and sometimes dormant) laws.

Our Attorneys

Roberto Luis Costales

Roberto Luis Costales is a founding partner of Beaumont Costales. His practice is focused on class action litigation, with an emphasis on worker rights and consumer rights. Roberto has litigated wage and hour cases on behalf of undocumented workers, class action cases against high-profile companies, and tried numerous cases to judgment. He has also successfully litigated complex and high-stakes personal injury cases. Born in New England, the son of Cuban immigrants, Roberto graduated from the University of Massachusetts with a degree in political science and later attended Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. He is fluent in English and Spanish and is a member of the Louisiana Bar Association.

William Beaumont

Will Beaumont is a founding partner of Beaumont Costales. His practice is focused on class action litigation, with an emphasis on workers rights and consumer rights. Will began his legal career in family law, representing hundreds of clients in high-value divorces as well as more than 50 adoption cases. He has also successfully tried hundreds of cases in wage and hour and personal injury law. A native of New Orleans, Will is a graduate of Tulane University and of Loyola University New Orleans's College of Law. He is licensed to practice in the State of Louisiana, the State of Illinois and the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois.
